

Rakontu 2.0 Visual Design

- Cynthia Kurtz - April 2011 (document version 1.0.1)
- This is a TENTATIVE DRAFT plan for the visual design of Rakontu 2.0.
- Rakontu is software to help small groups of people share and work with their stories together to achieve common goals.
- Rakontu is and always will be free and open source !!
- For more information see rakontu.org
- This is a design for a rich client desktop application which will communicate with other such applications via mediating server; a web interface would be different (probably simpler).
- This document has a sister called Rakontu 2.0 architecture.pdf which is probably somewhere near where you found this document. Many of the terms mentioned here are explained more fully there.
- Please send feedback/suggestions/help to cfkurtz at cfkurtz dot com

Rakontu 2.0
Objects and processes

Key

→ Defines

→ Creates

→ Uses

→ Describes

Data

Process

Rakontu About Rakontu Preferences... ----- Quit Rakontu	File Import... Export... Print... Publish...	Edit Undo Redo ----- Cut Copy Paste ----- Find text...
--	---	---

Community Open... Configure Connections... Close	Cafe Timeline ----- Tell a Story Start a Topic Hold a Workshop Send a Message	Library Browse ----- (Visualization plug-ins) ----- Search ...	Role Guide Curator Liaison Facilitator Researcher Manager Developer
--	--	--	---

Personal Profile ----- Messages Drafts	Help Rakontu Help Tips Bug report User forum
---	---

What some of the menus might look like ...

Harris Road Community	v
	A spot for everyone on our road. Issues, problems, hopes, history. > Bulletin board Melanie, Today 4:12 pm Story workshop next Monday at 4 pm. Theme: paving the road. Joe S., Yesterday 5:08 am What does everyone think of the new question about the dam proposal? Does it work? > Messages Ron, 4/5/2012 Cynthia, have you figured out how to manage your drafts yet? Happy to help. > Members <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ⊗ Joe S. ☺ Melanie Smith ☎ Helen (Blue house) ♂ ✎ Cynthia Kurtz ⌚ Ron M.

This is a community sidebar. It locates the user in the community and shows "what is going on" in the group. The bulletin board is a place to put global notices and questions. Messages are like internal (private) email among members. The members list shows roles and other information associated with members. Right-clicking on these things (on everything actually) produces a contextual menu. The user should be able to show or hide this sidebar depending on what they are doing at the time.

Two Views of the Community

- A Rakontu community is at once a group of people interacting (a café) and a group of collected stories (a library)
- The interface reflects this dichotomy and interplay
- The activity timeline shows what is going on here – visiting the café tables
- The content browser shows what is in here – rummaging in the library stacks (+ Visualization plugins: many views of the library)

Cafe timeline

- What has been going on lately – cafe, activity
- The story of the stories
- Links and patterns across time
- Horizontal axis is always time, vertical axis is "swim lanes" distinction showing, e.g.:
 - by type of activity: topic, story, comment, etc
 - by who is doing things: member, role, character
 - by group activity: workshop to collage to topic
 - by interpretation: answers to poll questions (feeling: happy/relieved/angry/ etc)
 - by expression: containing particular words or phrases, for example
 - by connection: links made, changed, tags set/changed, etc

Show by type From a week ago to ...

right now

Gold faucets

Cynthia. Monday 4:32 pm

Okay, so I was out at the construction site for that new big mansion last week? And I'm talking to one of the guys and he says take a look at this. And he gets out a box, and they ordered all GOLD faucets for their bathrooms, all fifteen of them or whatever. I'm like, that's just not right, and he was like hey, if you've got it...

but I don't know, I don't like what it does to our town. We've always been good hard working folks. It just rubs me the wrong way. I told my Dad about it and he thought it was a bad sign, said it wouldn't have happened in the old days, people would have known better.

User has clicked on one story and they can see how it connects throughout the system over time – the "story of the story" ...

That reminds me of the time...
That's not what happened!
This is related to ...

∨ Comments (1)

Fred said Today at 5:15pm:

I'm not that upset about it. The thing that bothers me more is that they are building on top of the old (...)

Add comment

> Links (New folks in town, Haves and have-nots)

> Tags (new construction, old ruins)

∨ Poll (7 responses)

How important is this story?

How do you feel about this story?

Change your answers

Topics
Stories
Comments
Polls
Tags
Links
Collages

Gold faucets

Okay, so I was out at the corner last week? And I'm talking to him at this. And he gets out a book about their bathrooms, all fifteen of them. Not right, and he was like he said but I don't know, I don't like it. It's been good hard working folks. I told my Dad about it and he thought it had happened in the old days.

What other experience did this remind you of?

I saw something like that last year. I was going out by the beach, and I saw some kids hanging around a nice house. I knew one of them so I stopped and asked what they were doing. They said they always wait there because those people put out the best garbage. It's recycling I guess but couldn't they take their stuff to the exchange area like we all do? Seems rude to make people come to their house and pick it up for them. Like we are their garbage people or something.

Why did that other story remind you of this one?

People not knowing they are offending, but not bothering to find out either

How do you feel about the story?

happy relieved hopeful enthused proud sad angry hopeless indifferent disappointed

How long do you think you will remember it?

a day or two -----x----- as long as I live

Who do you think should hear it?

New people who come here, the rich folks

User clicked on "That reminds me of the time" and adds a new story. The interaction should feel like a conversation or interview, not a form. The popup window is small which helps them keep in view the story they are responding to and its context. As soon as they enter their story they see it appear in the context as well, with the link they created.

That's not what happened!
This is related to ...

- 1 angry
- 1 (no response)

Change your answers

Show by type From a week ago to ...

right now

Link type: reminded

Cynthia, Monday 4:32 pm

Why? It made me think of people withholding information ...

Gold faucets

Cynthia, Monday 4:32 pm

Okay, so I was out at the construction site for that new big mansion last week? And I'm talking to one of the guys and he says take a look at this. And he gets out a box, and they ordered all GOLD faucets for their bathrooms, all fifteen of them or whatever. I'm like, that's just not right, and he was like hey, if you've got it...

but I don't know, I don't like what it does to our town. We've always been good hard working folks. It just rubs me the wrong way. I told my Dad about it and he thought it was a bad sign, said it wouldn't have happened in the old days, people would have known better.

User has clicked on a link and is looking at why two stories were linked...

What is causing all these horse flies?

Cynthia, Monday 4:32 pm

Hey, I heard something from one of the forestry guys up at the state office. He said that they were trying a new biological treatment, that's what he called it, against those narrow-flies that have been causing so much havoc in the pitch pines. And then, and this is what will surprise you, he says that - as an "unintended consequence" - those were his words - the horse flies "took off" because nothing was eating the dead stuff in the woods. Now he said that was his own opinion and not everybody agreed with him, and he said it wasn't an official thing. But have you noticed the horse flies these past two summers? My old dog has been beside himself in late July. We have to keep him inside, he doesn't stop scratching and swatting them away. They get him right next to his eyes, poor old thing. Anyway, it's just something I heard, and I won't say who said it either, don't want to get him in trouble.

Answers to "Feel about" From yesterday to ...

right now

Thanks from the Smithsons

June Smithson, today 10 am

Docks sprayed, Sarah, today 9am
What is going on with the dock vandalism?

I just want to say thanks to everyone who helped us out when our house caught fire. The bedrooms were lost but we were so grateful for what we still have. Last week three docks had spray paint on them. I went out on Sunday morning and... My photo albums were untouched! Of the living room whole house that was what I most treasured!! But what a fright it was to have to run out of the house in the middle of the night. What a group of volunteer firefighters we have, they really know their stuff. Anyway so I just want everyone to know that we were overwhelmed with all the help we got. So many people introduced themselves as sort-of neighbors and said they had enjoyed our big flower garden over the years, and they brought all kinds of things to help out. So much food we didn't have to cook for weeks, and new clothes and, just lots of help. We are truly grateful to everyone who reached out to help us. Work on the rebuilding will start in just a few weeks, and we are over at my mom's house, if anyone is looking, just down the road at the house with the green roof. Thanks again everyone.

What is causing all these horse flies?

Cynthia, Monday 4:32 pm

Hey, I heard something from one of the forestry guys up at the state office. He said that they were trying a new biological treatment, that's what he called it, against those narrow-flies that have been causing so much havoc in the pitch pines. And then, and this is what will surprise you, he says that - as an "unintended consequence" - those were his words - the horse flies "took off" because nothing was eating the dead stuff in the woods. Now he said that was his own opinion and not everybody agreed with him, and he said it wasn't an official thing. But have you noticed the horse flies these past two summers? My old dog has been beside himself in late July, eating them away. They get him right next to his eyes, poor old thing. either, don't want to get him in trouble.

User is looking at stories with different answers to the "feel about" question and comparing two of them. They are also hovering their mouse over a third and seeing the start of it.

Content browser

- Poke around in the stacks – library
- Not "what is going on" but "what is IN here"
- Time is not an important element, though it can come into play as one option
- All possible browsing elements are in play

Members Polls Comments Links Tags	Cynthia Paul Ellen Joe S. MeToo Joseph Travertine	Workshops Topics Stories Comments Tags Links	Last week at the lake Old man winter Running away Why not try? I said Guess what guess what The fence is broken
--	---	--	---

The fence is broken

Ellen, Tuesday November 5, 2012

I don't know who did it, but I found a note out by that fence, you know which one I mean. Those vacation people put a big fence up around their property because I guess somebody left a few beer cans around. Which I think was kind of rude, I mean, they are here what two days a year? Anyway so a few weeks ago I guess some of the young people broke the fence, a bit, not a lot. And I was out walking the dog and there was this note lying in front of the fence, it was all soggy from the rain and hard to read, but it said stuff like "you people" don't have any respect for others, and how dare you and so on. I don't think they realize that people actually LIVE here and that their ugly fence is something we have to look at EVERY DAY and it's an affront to us to have put it up in the first place. Anyway I'm not going to do anything about it, but there it is.

- Comments
- Links
- Tags
- Poll results
- Attachments

7 responses

How important is this story?

 4 not very

 2 some

 1 very

How do you feel about this story?

 3 indifferent

 2 irritated

 1 angry

 1 (no response)

User has "drilled down" by member to see the stories told by Ellen and picked one. Inside that story they are looking at poll results collected.

Members Polls Comments Links Tags	Stories Members Characters	How feel How long remember Why told Happened to Who should hear Useful to newcomers	trivial  lifelong	Last week at the lake Old man winter Running away Why not try? I said Guess what ... The fence is broken
--	---	---	--	--

The fence is broken

Ellen, Tuesday November 5, 2012

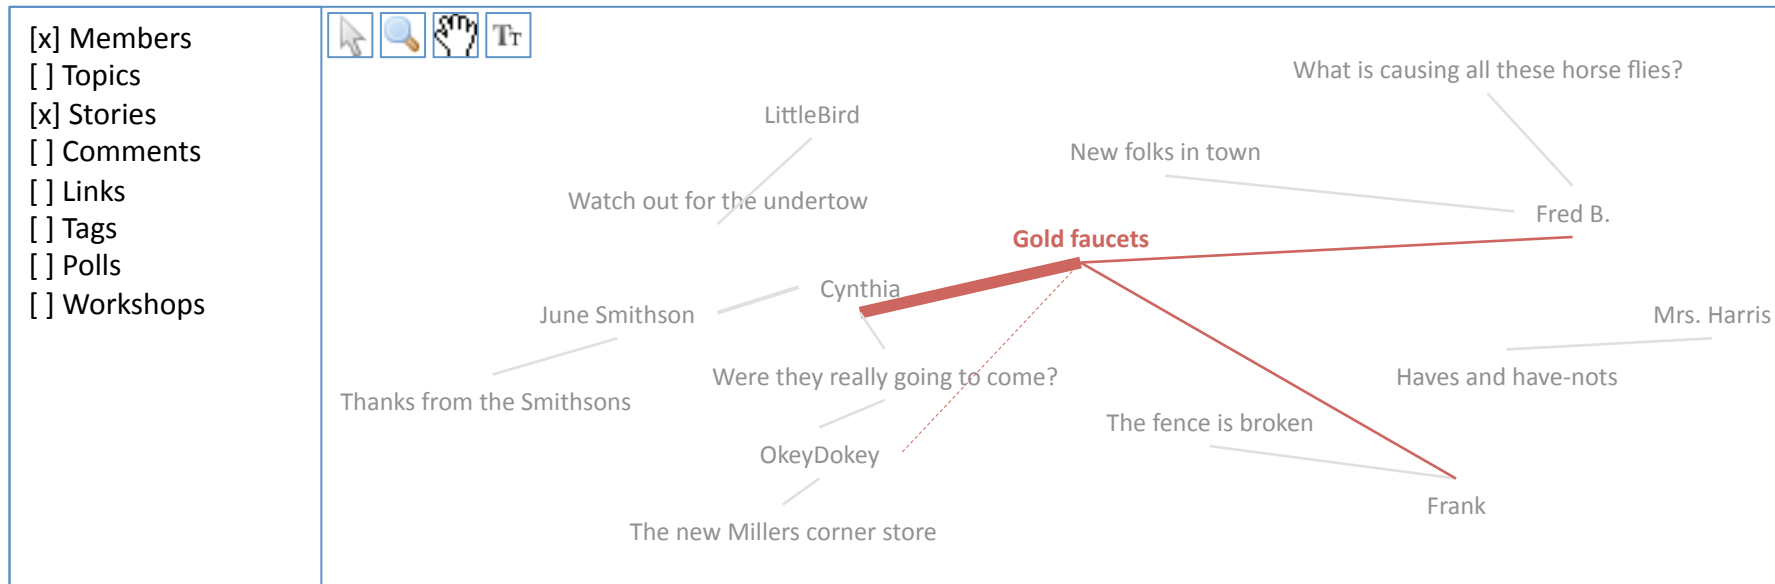

I don't know who did it, but I found a note out by that fence, you know which one I mean. Those vacation people put a big fence up around their property because I guess somebody left a few beer cans around. Which I think was kind of rude, I mean, they are here what two days a year? Anyway so a few weeks ago I guess some of the young people broke the fence, a bit, not a lot. And I was out walking the dog and there was this note lying in front of the fence, it was all soggy from the rain and hard to read, but it said stuff like "you people" don't have any respect for others, and how dare you and so on. I don't think they realize that people actually LIVE here and that their ugly fence is something we have to look at EVERY DAY and it's an affront to us to have put it up in the first place. Anyway I'm not going to do anything about it, but there it is.

Comments Links Tags Poll results Attachments	Last week at the lake , reminded Tensions and resolutions , collage Changing our town , report
---	--

User has "drilled down" by polls about stories, to the question "how long will you remember this story?" They have used the range slider to say they want to see stories in which people (anybody) answered the question with a value between (roughly) 10 and 30 on a scale from 0 to 100. The list of stories results and they choose one to read. Below the story are its annotations and links, and they are examining links from this story to others.

Visualizations

- Here we should not have ONE visualization but leave things open to a LOT of different ways to visualize connections and data. Best to leave this OPEN !!

Network diagram is just ONE possible visualization. Other possible ones:

- mindmap
- landscapes (like scatter charts but with more meaning?)
- layers of landscapes (like GIS)
- circle connection diagram (things arranged in circle, links between them)
- Gantt chart (for projects)
- something to show multiple perspectives
- cartoons?
- bubble charts (size means one thing, color another, placement in xy another)
- various ways of showing hierarchies and meshworks (and both)

Role screens

- Here is one screen design for each of the named roles:
 - guide
 - curator
 - liaison
 - facilitator
 - researcher
 - technician
 - manager/owner

Messages Requests Topics	★ How do you become a guide? ✓ I lost my story draft!! ✓ What's a poll? ✓ I can't get into the chat	joe Helen2 Marge SillyPerson	Yesterday 1:50 pm Monday 12:30 am 4/4/2012 4/2/2012
---------------------------------------	---	--	---

Guides will spend a lot of time using the activity timeline. In addition they need to see messages asking them for help, requests to do things related to stories/topics/etc, topics and responses to them, and resources to help people. They might also run workshops which are just tours in which they explain (over the phone or Skype) how to use Rakontu.

How do you become a guide?
I think I could do this guide thing but whos permission do I need?

Messages Requests Topics	★ Audio interview ✓ Your opinion? ✓ Russian story ✓ For grandma	transcription poll translation read aloud	Marge joe erik Wanda	ten minutes ago Monday 2:40 pm 3/2/2012 2/14/2012
--	---	---	--------------------------------------	---

Audio interview Marge. ten minutes ago

This is the tape I collected yesterday after the town meeting. I'd really like it if somebody could transcribe this before the next meeting so we can use it in the newsletter.

Messages Requests Topics	Subjects Plans Memory joggers Reports Ideas	✓ Quotes from the old folks ★ Photos of the old cemetery ✓ What the bridge used to look like ✓ Remember the one-room schoolhouse? ✓ Report from August workshop	SillyPerson Joan M. Helen2 Wanda erik	1/2/2012 12/2/2011 11/5/2011 6/9/2011 6/8/2011	12 responses 0 responses 1 response 33 responses 9 responses
--	---	--	--	---	---

Photos of the old cemetery Joan M, 12/2/2011

Here are some photos I found in the barn last week. Does this bring back any memories?

Show

with

Topics Stories Collages Entries Workshops Members Characters	no few many duplicate conflicting varying unvarying	tags comments links poll results texts versions	Last week at the lake Old man winter Running away Why not try? I said Guess what ... The fence is broken
---	--	---	--

The fence is broken

Ellen, Tuesday November 5, 2012

I don't know who did it, but I found a note out by that fence, you know which one I mean. Those vacation people put a big fence up around their property because I guess somebody left a few beer cans around. Which I think was kind of rude, I mean, they are here what two days a year? Anyway so a few weeks ago I guess some of the young people broke the fence, a bit, not a lot. And I was out walking the dog and there was this note lying in front of the fence, it was all soggy from the rain and hard to read, but it said stuff like "you people" don't have any respect for others, and how dare you and so on. I don't think they realize that people actually LIVE here and that their ugly fence is something we have to look at EVERY DAY and it's an affront to us to have put it up in the first place. Anyway I'm not going to do anything about it, but there it is.

Comments Links Tags Poll results Attachments	0 tags	<input type="text" value="(select)"/> ↓	<input type="text" value="vandalism"/>
		<input type="text" value="property"/> ↓	<input type="text"/>
		<input type="text" value="neighbors"/> ↓	<input type="text"/>
			<input type="button" value="Add tags"/>

Curators will spend a lot of time using the content browser, but their dedicated screen looks for gaps and broken places in the data – the equivalent of a book out of place or a shelf out of order in the library.

Off-line members

Joe Momrath Helen Grandma Josephine	Messages Stories Workshops	Fording the stream Grandma's cookies Don't give up the struggle Where the schoolhouse was	Comments Links Tags Flags
Melody Cramwell, Monday 5:23 pm Hey Helen, I remember those cookies too. It is so good to hear your voice here Helen. Will we see you at the next workshop? I think it's next month, why don't you ask Karen about it. I'd be happy to drive you.

Liaisons need a screen that helps them manage their interactions with off-line members: representing them, ferrying messages to and from them, adding stories, checking on those stories, printing things to read or show to them.

Upcoming workshops

Getting our road fixed Preparing for history day Story album for new neighbors	Title Date/time Notes To-do list Participants
April 11, 2011 Notes: Story sharing workshop Be there at 9am to get ready. Helpers, watch out for people not understanding why we are telling stories.

Facilitators need a screen that concentrates on workshops and preparation for them. (They also need a way to edit characters, which is not shown here.)

Look at

with filtered by question

answers

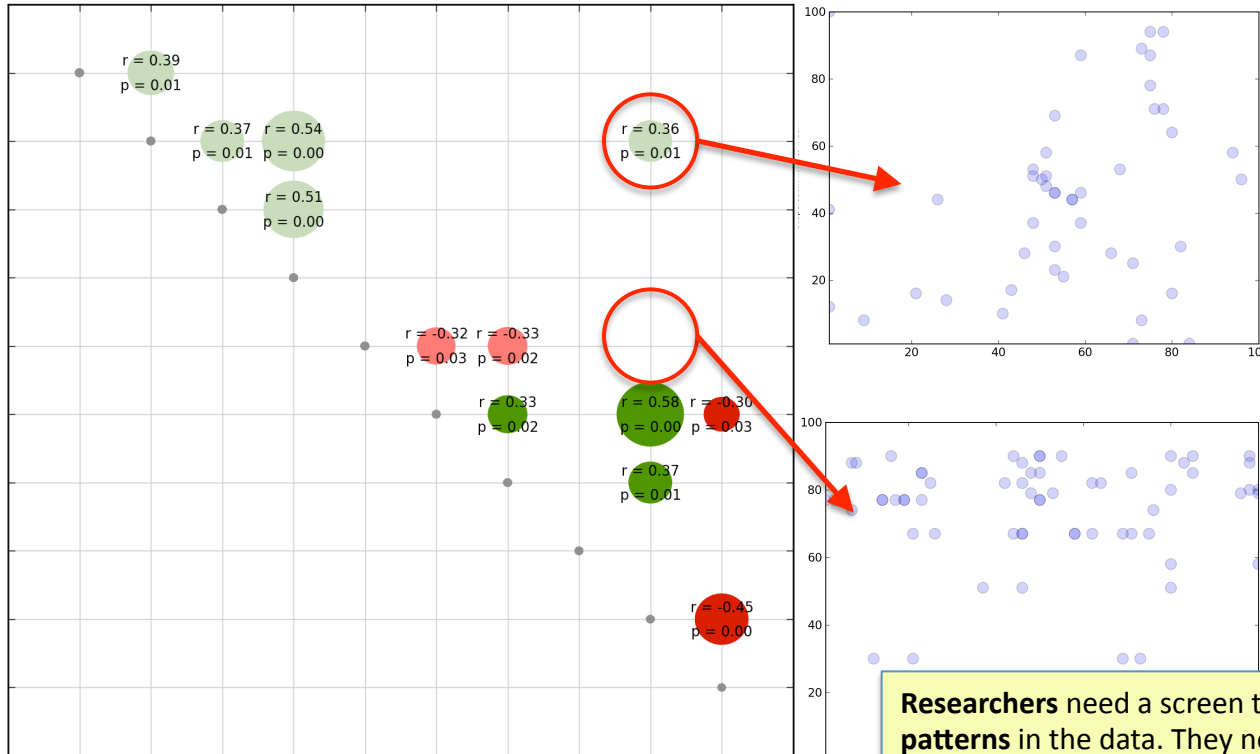

Choices
Scales
Texts

Choices
Scales
Texts

Choices
Scales
Texts

Storyteller: Age
Storyteller: Profession
Storyteller: Position on dam for undecided against

Notes

Do you see how there is a correlation between memorability and irritation, but only among those against the dam project.

Researchers need a screen that concentrates on patterns in the data. They need to run a series of visualization outcomes and statistical tests, probably on a regular basis, and see the results periodically updated. They need to be able to prepare a catalyzing topic to be used in a sensemaking workshop.

Um, stuff with packets and things...

Technicians need a screen that concentrates on technical details of the software usage.

Members	John McQueen	on-line member	May 11, 2012	curator
Appearance	Sharon B.	on-line member	Two weeks ago	guide, liaison, manager
Settings	Royce	on-line member	Yesterday	facilitator
Flags	Helen	OFF-line member	About a month ago	none
Messages

Royce has created 5 topics, 25 stories, 55 comments, 12 tags, 2 flags, 3 workshops.

Members	Invitations	Guide
Appearance	Roles	Curator
Settings	Attachments	Liaison
Flags		Facilitator
Messages		Researcher
		Manager

The guide role is:

agreed

Text to be read when member takes on role:

Guides answer questions, encourage people to tell stories, and maintain the vitality of the on-line member community. Guides must agree to receive messages so they can answer questions.

Managers need a screen that concentrates on membership and overall settings.

Other screens

Not doing ones not marked here in bold because they will be fairly simple forms.

- Reading
 - About this Rakontu, about its members, member profile
 - Reading a story or topic
 - Viewing a collage
- Changing
 - Editing member profile
 - Entering a story or topic
 - Building a collage – of each type
- Communicating
 - Making a comment
 - Sending and receiving messages
- Workshops
 - Storytelling
 - Sensemaking

Stories, topics and collages
(drag things here to include them)

The night the bed fell

Rosie the rancher
Let's all fly a kite
No news is good news
Why not go up there?
Okay, I'm listening
I wish I had gone back

I suppose that the high-water mark of my youth in Columbus, Ohio, was the night the bed fell on my father. It makes a better recitation (unless, as some friends of mine have said, one has heard it five or six times) than it does a piece of writing, for it is almost necessary to throw furniture around, shake doors, and bark like a dog, to lend the proper atmosphere and verisimilitude to what is admittedly a somewhat incredible tale. Still, it did take place.

It happened, then, that my father had decided to sleep in the attic one night, to be away where he could think. My mother opposed the notion strongly because, she said, the old wooden bed up there was unsafe- it was wobbly and

What is going on?

going to sleep
waking up loud noises

Who is doing things?

a kid
father mother cousin grandfather sister
policeman

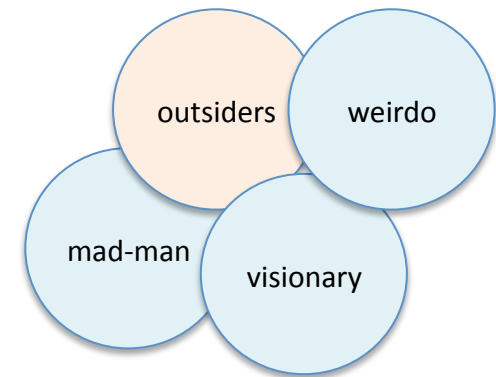

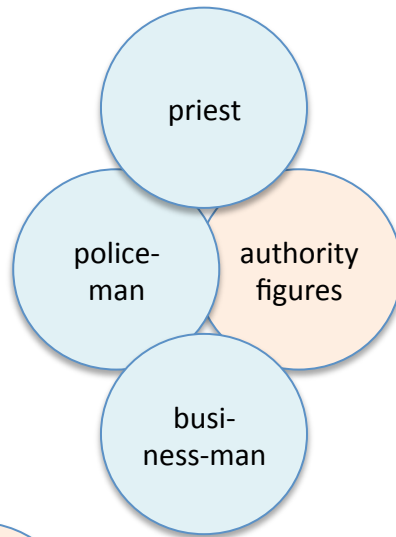

What matters to them?

quiet
peace
a bit crazy!!

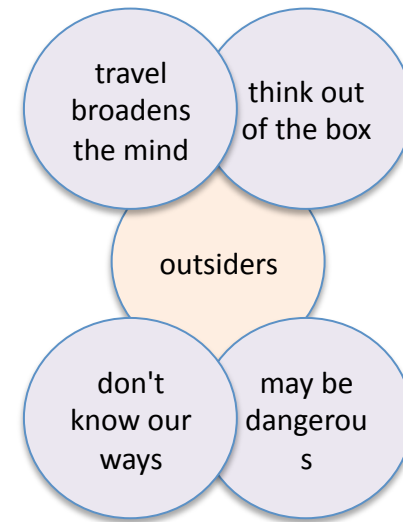

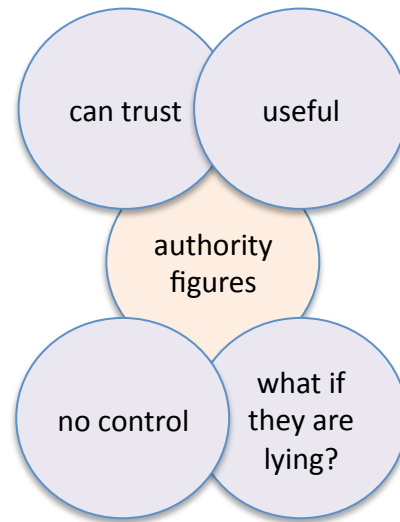

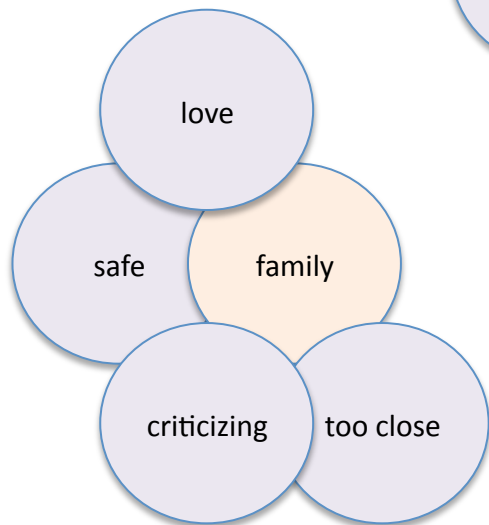

Archetype derivation workshop – part one. People drag stories into the list (or create them right there??) then type texts into lists of story elements – probably just text boxes.

Who is doing things?

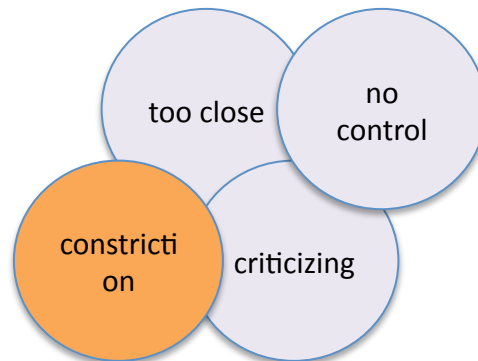

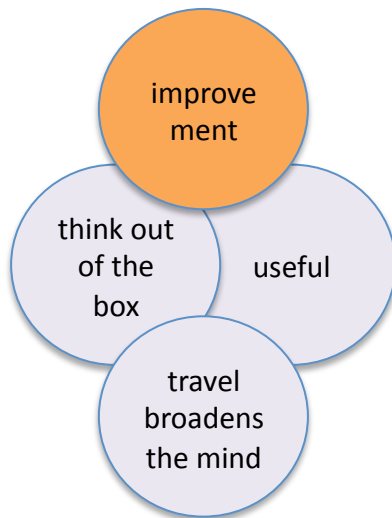

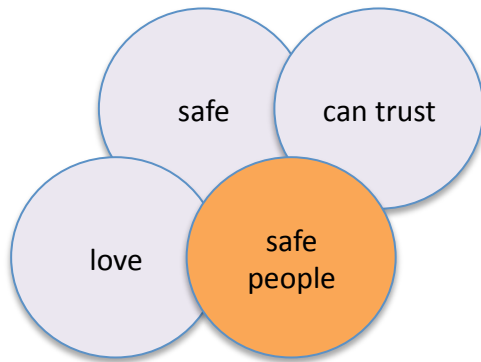

a kid
father
mother
cousin grandfather sister
policeman priest businessman madman

Archetype derivation workshop – part two. Now doing characters only. People drag "who is doing things" character elements out of the list and into the space randomly. Or there could be a "put these all in the space randomly" button. Then they start clustering them. While clustering they add cluster names- though that is optional and sometimes people don't do it.

Archetype derivation workshop – part three.
People create a NEW canvas and copy the cluster names ONLY to it. They now create new shapes with new colors for attributes.

Archetype derivation workshop – part four. People create a NEW canvas AGAIN and copy the attributes ONLY to it. They now cluster the attributes and name the clusters and it's done.

Also want some way to see the connections here, all the way back to the original stories. Link lines?

strong,
friendly

strong,
hostile

the bridge
when it was new

the dog
when it was rabid

these things are not as high priority

A landscape exercise. First step is the same as for archetypes – select entries then type in elements based on them. Some elements might BE entries, some might not. Then: define space with shapes at corners, place elements, add labels/shapes to describe patterns.

blah blah

blah blah

blah blah

crumbling foundations

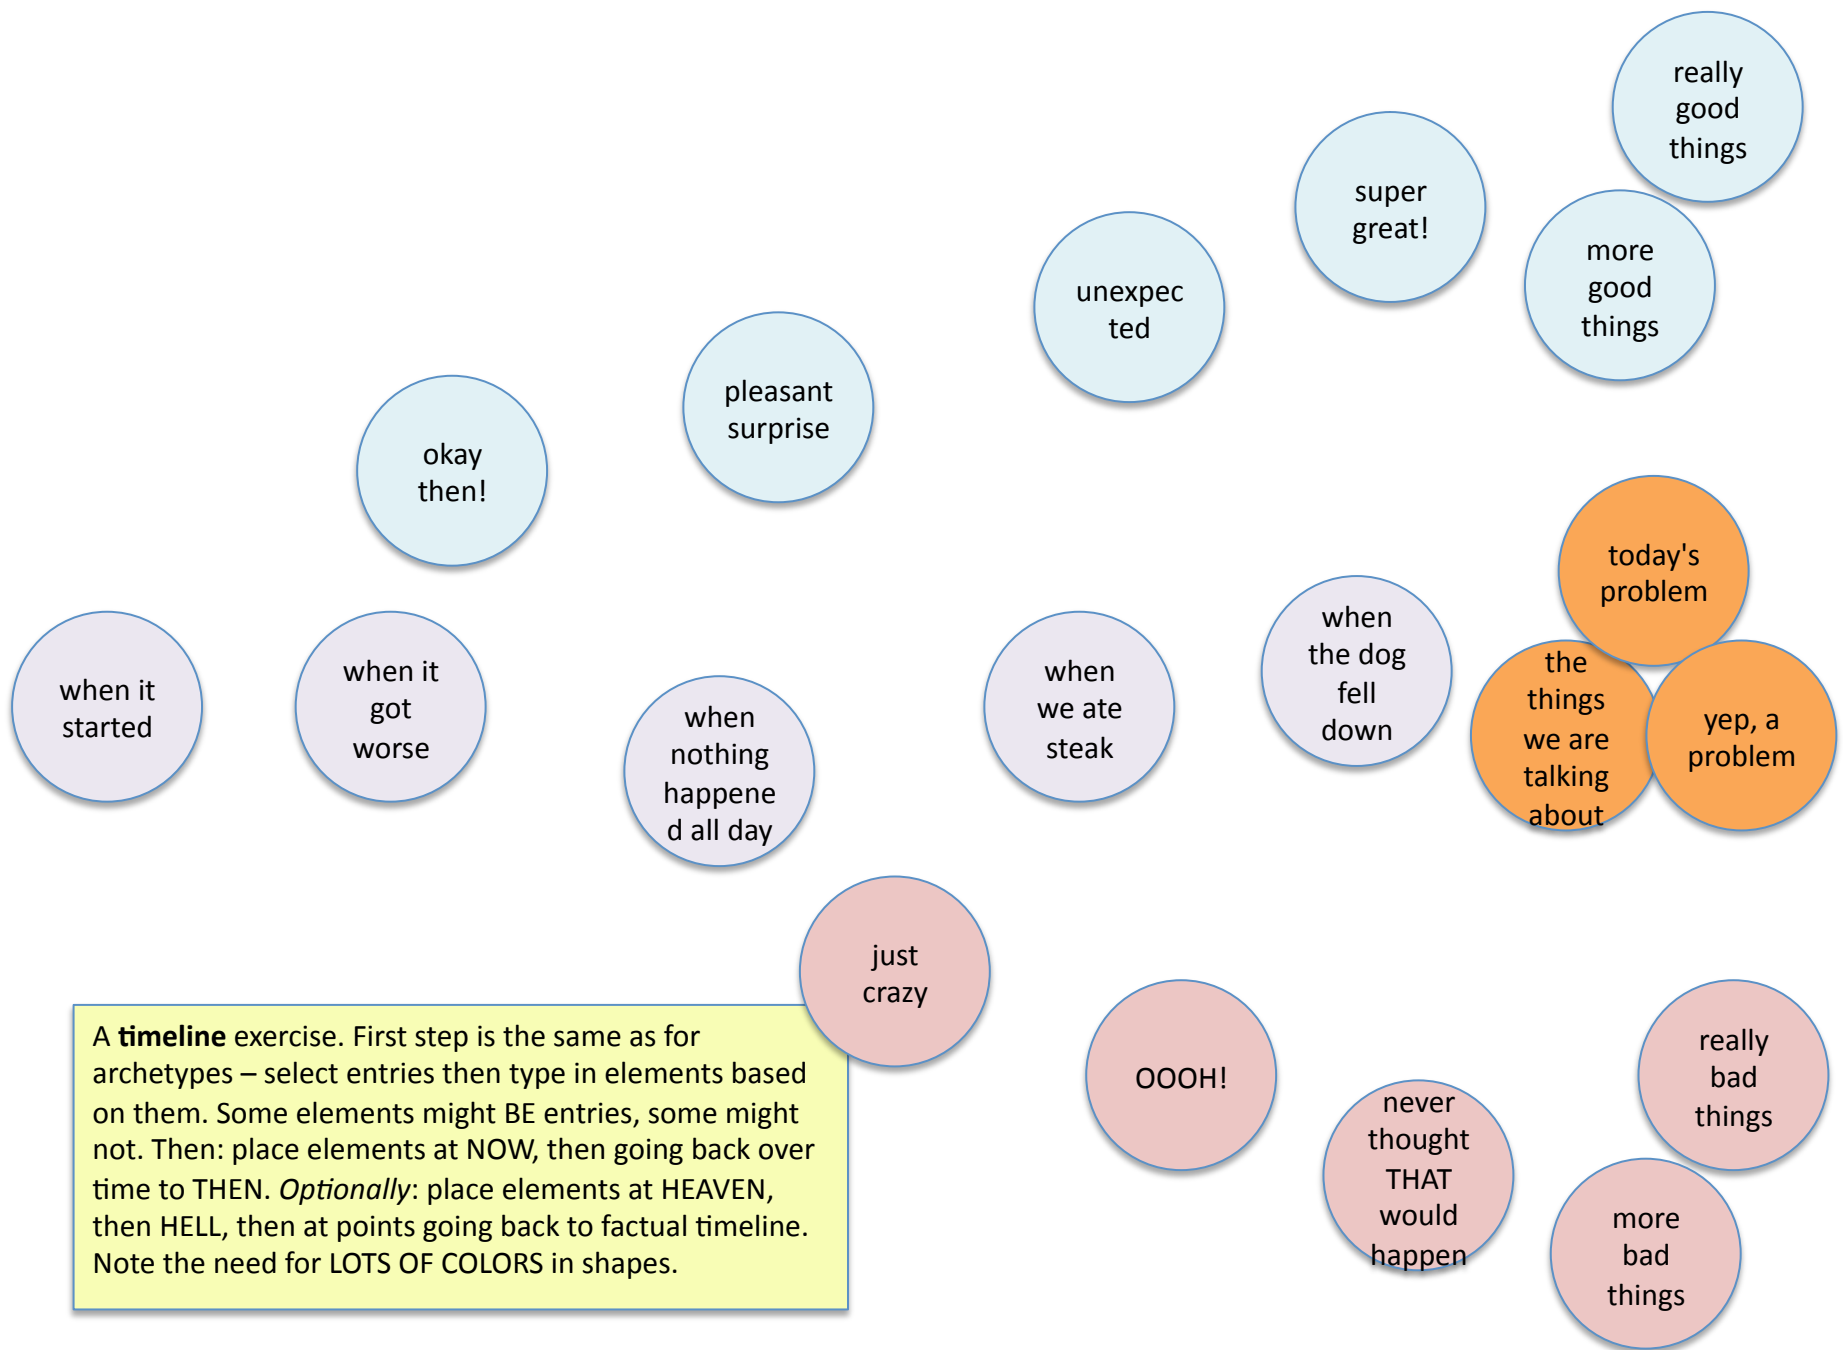

the carriage house

the bridge today

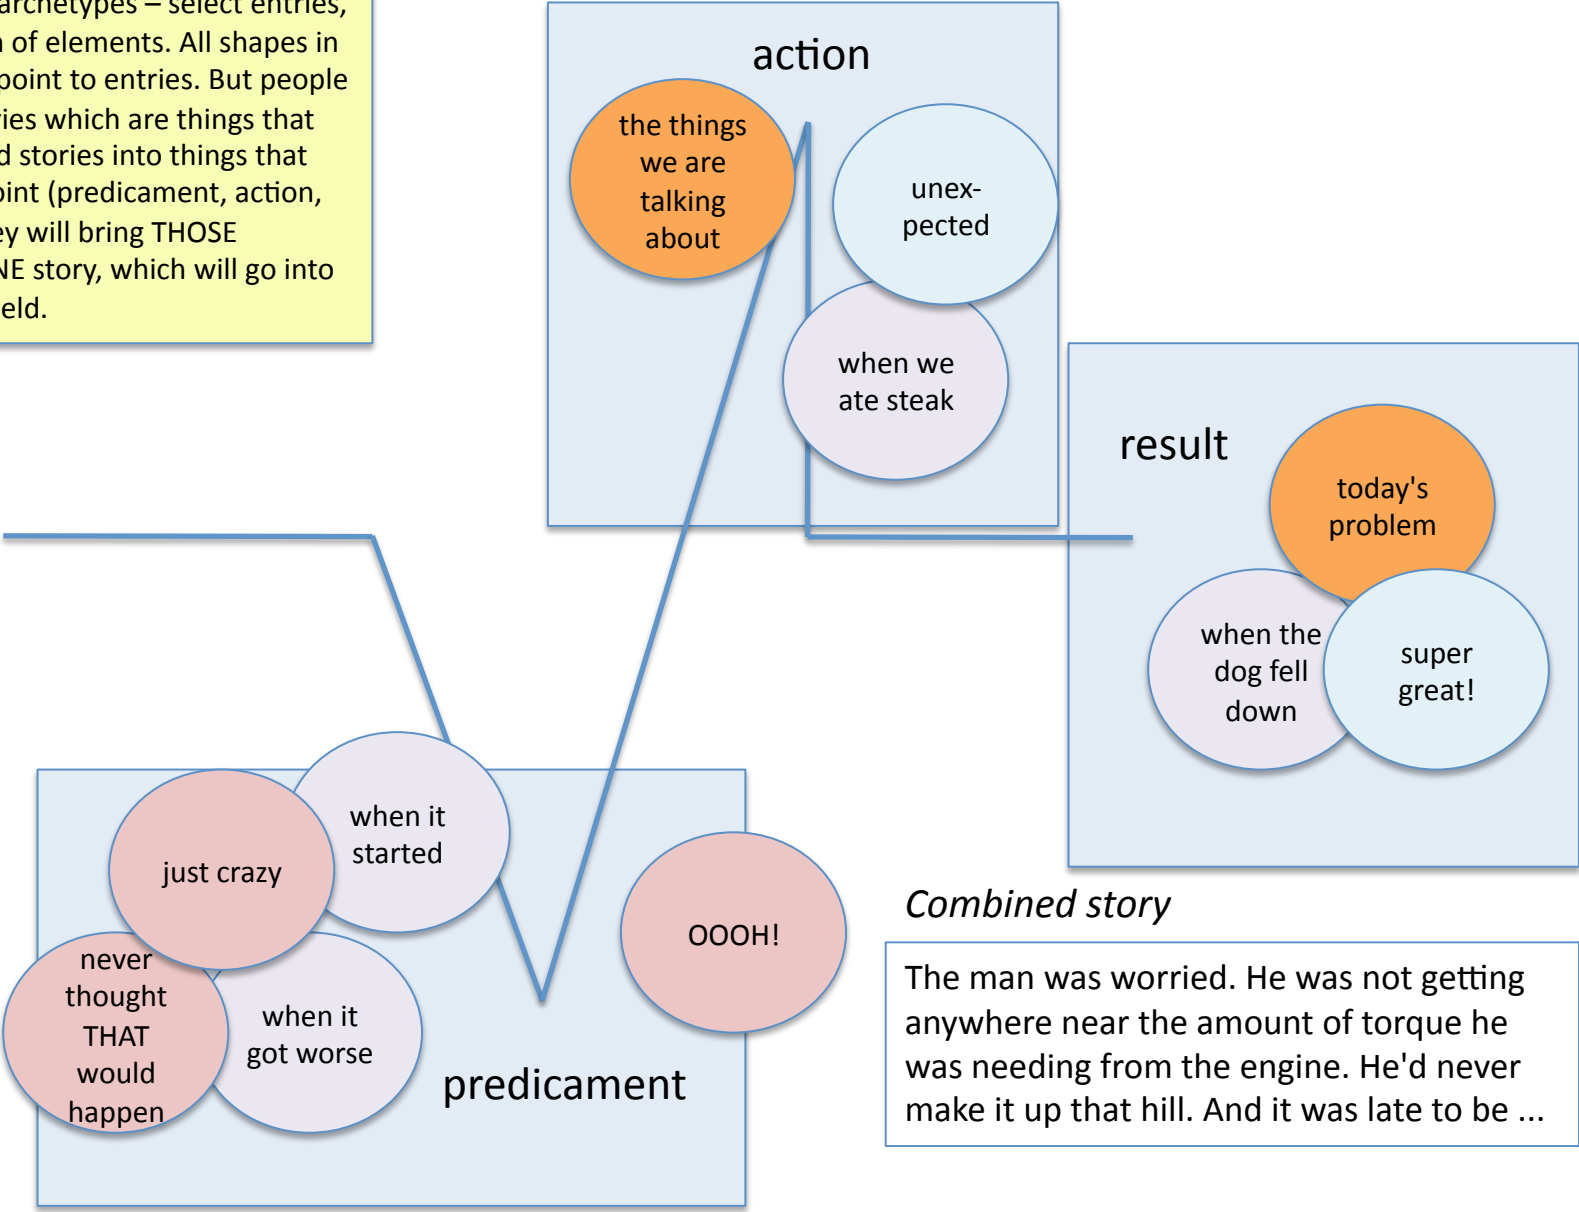

weak,
hostile

weak,
friendly

A story construction exercise. First step is the same as for archetypes – select entries, BUT no typing in of elements. All shapes in this collage will point to entries. But people create NEW stories which are things that combine the told stories into things that slot into each point (predicament, action, result). Then they will bring THOSE together into ONE story, which will go into the main TEXT field.

The man was worried. He was not getting anywhere near the amount of torque he was needing from the engine. He'd never make it up that hill. And it was late to be ...

Live chat

Cynthia

Yep that's what happened.

Paul

Why?

Cynthia

I don't know. I wasn't looking when it happened.

A story sharing workshop. People chat in one part of the window. When they tell a story they click add then they copy and paste it into a new area... then they answer questions about it ☺ bit of hand waving here ☺

It kind of just grew there.

Send

Stories told so far

The night the bed fell

* Rosie the rancher

Let's all fly a kite

No news is good news

Why not go up there?

* Okay, I'm listening

I wish I had gone back

I suppose that the high-water mark of my youth in Columbus, Ohio, was the night the bed fell on my father. It makes a better recitation (unless, as some friends of mine have said, one has heard it five or six times) than it does a piece of writing, for it is almost necessary to throw furniture around, shake doors, and bark like a dog, to lend the proper atmosphere and verisimilitude to what is admittedly a somewhat incredible tale. Still, it did take place.

How do you feel about this story?

great fine

okay

Thanks for reading this!

- Please send feedback/suggestions/help to cfkurtz at cfkurtz dot com
- For more information see rakontu.org
- We are actively soliciting help for this project – feedback, encouragement, coding, writing, funding, cabbage, whatever! 😊 so come and join us!